POLICY

Substance abuse treatment programs shall be designed in the most effective and efficient manner available to the department and shall be made available, as possible, to inmates who meet the Department's screening criteria for treatment.

The RDU LSI-R assessment shall be used for facility substance abuse treatment program screening. Inmates who meet the total risk score and Alcohol/Drug domain score criteria of their LSI-R assessment will be considered to have a criminogenic need for substance abuse treatment. The offender's criminogenic need will be recorded on the inmate's Summary of Criminogenic Needs.

Requests for discretionary exceptions to this policy shall be approved by the Deputy Secretary for the Programs, Support and Research Services Division or by his/her designee.

DEFINITIONS

Level of Service Inventory-Revised (LSI-R): The LSI-R is an objective, 54-item risk/needs assessment instrument composed of ten subcomponents that contain both static and dynamic risk factors. The instrument is a quantitative survey of attributes of offenders and their situations relevant to level of service decisions. The LSI-R provides a consistent and valid method of predicting risk to re-offend and a reliable means of measuring offender change over time through reassessment.

Criminogenic Needs: Dynamic risk factors, which when changed, decrease the probability for continued criminal offending.

Summary of Criminogenic Needs: An electronic listing in the KDOC database of an inmate's criminogenic needs as measured by the LSI-R.
